A screenshot of a web registration form. The form is white with a light blue border. It contains several input fields and buttons. The 'Username' field is pre-filled with 'example. email@example.co.za' and has a blue 'Check' button next to it. Below this is a 'Detail Validation' section with the text 'email address [change]'. The 'Email Address' field is also pre-filled with 'example. email@example.co.za'. There are two empty password fields labeled 'Create Password:' and 'Confirm Password:'. Between these fields is a note: '8-character minimum; case sensitive; No '&' signs allowed.'. Below the password fields is a checkbox labeled 'Communication:' with the text 'I would like to receive email communication from this website'. At the bottom, there is a line of text: 'Clicking 'Create account' means that you agree to this website's terms and conditions'. At the very bottom are two buttons: 'Back' and 'Create account'.

On completion of your registration, you will receive an e-mail to activate your account. Note: Validation will be forwarded to the owner of the account should you register as a Beneficiary user.
